NCCA 10 Week Plan

INTRODUCTION

Politics and Society is a subject that draws on many disciplines and makes linkages between students' learning both in the classroom and in the wider world. The dynamic and topical nature of the subject knowledge cannot be contained in a text book. It requires an approach to teaching and learning that brings students through the following process:

- ▶ learners begin to engage with a topic through exploring how it applies to their own lives or to a context that is meaningful to them
- ▶ they then explore this topic in more detail through applying a range of different arguments or through examining data relevant to their question
- ▶ in doing this they develop their skills of discussion and debate and of analysing information and, using these skills, they come to their own conclusions
- ▶ they compare their own context to another context at national, European or wider world level

Milgram and Stanford

While both of these experiments have established themselves in the public's consciousness as being at the cutting edge of Psychological research, they are merely only at the cutting edge of immoral nut-jobbery - The Stanford experiment in particular. Reservations about the Milgram experiment tend to be more technical, but do through some unexpected insight into how the startling results were achieved.

Beware the Epiphany-Industrial Complex

For nearly 50 years now, the Stanford Prison Experiment has been held up as proof of how combustible personal interactions can be, how the bonds of humanity can disappear in a flash.

Something light hearted (ish...)

Tying in with the Key Thinker dinner party, here's an excerpt from a Crystal Palace FC match programme from a few seasons back...

FANTASY DINNER PARTY

Crystal Palace players past and present will be inviting guests to dinner each week, with no restrictions and no judgements on who they choose – after all, Come Dine With Me is always better viewing when personalities and ideologies clash.

This week, Damien Delaney is in store for quite an explosive night but hopefully the Rolling Stones influence won't mean the guests will be leaving saying: I Can't Get No Satisfaction (from the dinner party).

KEITH RICHARDS

"Definitely Keith Richards; he'd be my number one dinner guest. The stories, man. I was a little bit obsessed with the Stones and still am to be honest."

JOSEPH STALIN

"I'm fascinated by Russian history. Not because I'm a Stalinist, I'm not. I'm fascinated by Tsarist Russia, the changeover in 1917 and the Bolsheviks and all that side of it. Lenin and Stalin and then Stalin is in the cabinet with Lenin and rises to power and rules with an iron fist. Maybe not a great dinner guest to be honest..."

GENGHIS KHAN

"A guy in a village at 15 rose from literally nothing to become arguably the most powerful warlord there was in an amazingly short span of time. His leadership and ferocity is probably unmatched."

CHAIRMAN MAO

"Imagine uniting a community of a billion or so people. The force of personality these people must have had is insane."

NAPOLEON BONAPARTE

"Again, just fascinating. I don't admire these people but I have an absolute fascination with historical leaders."
