Article Page

Article pages feature a large splash image, and a two-column format with media on the left and corresponding text on the right.

A Pictures, Videos, and More tab shows all the media of an article in one place.

The More Information tab holds links to related articles, games, activities, and even comprehension questions from our editorial team.

Camouflaged tiger

The tiger is the largest kind of wild cat. An adult male tiger is about 9 feet (2.7 meters) long. An adult female is about 8 feet (2.4 meters) long. Wild tigers are found only in Asia.

Tigers are mammals, animals that feed their young on mother's milk. Tigers have large, powerful bodies. A tiger's coat may range in color from brownish-yellow to orange-red. The coat is marked with black stripes. Each tiger's stripe pattern is unique, much like a human fingerprint. The fur on the throat, belly, and insides of the legs is whitish.

Adult tigers live alone. Tigers are good hunters with keen vision, hearing, and smell. They hunt mostly deer, wild cattle, antelopes, and wild pigs. Tigers hunt at night. They creep up on an animal quietly and then rush forward to pull it down.
