

Digital Task – Opening Presentation at a Plantation Exhibition.

Note: This is a mock notice to support the task.

The director of the National Museum of Ireland wants your class to present at their upcoming Plantation Exhibition.

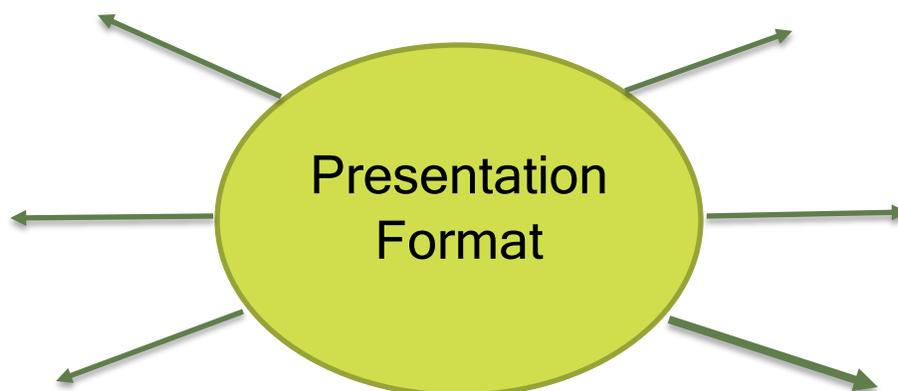

You are required to nominate a student who will present the work of your class on the Laois - Offaly plantation. The nominated student will be the first guest to present at the exhibition to mark the first plantation in Ireland. We hope your class can excite our audience with an authentic digital display on their understanding of the Laois - Offaly plantation.

Your class must provide visitors with an insight into the historical background of attempts to settle new planters in the county in the sixteenth century.

Please co-create success criteria with your class on what should be included in the presentation to convey their thorough understanding of the first plantation.

| | |
|--------------------------|--|
| Exceptional | |
| Above expectations | |
| In line with expectation | |
| Yet to meet expectation | |

Digital literacy is very important to us so deep thought should be put into how the entire class work will be presented using digital technology. Possible ideas could include digital storytelling or a blog for our audience to explore.

Please ensure students only include copyright free images into the presentation. The following websites could be used to source copyright free images;

- <https://unsplash.com/>
- <https://creativecommons.org/>
- Google Safe-search : Click on 'Tools' and choose the license 'Labelled for non-commercial re-use with modification'
- www.Pixabay.com

It is the student's responsibility to check the license attached to images. The author of the image should be attributed within the presentation.

Tips:

This website lists filmmaking and animation apps to support the development of digital storytelling. See here.

Students could also view this blog project for inspiration. See here.

The Ask About Ireland website has a section on 'How to Complete a Project'. See here.